3 KILLED IN ACCIDENTS

Two Killed In Lincoln Highway Auto Accident

A serious auto accident took place on the Lincoln Highway near Matteson Sunday night in which two persons were killed.

J. T. Murphy, aged 46 years former police commissioner of Chicago Heights, his niece Miss Erb and another young man and woman were driving west in their Moon sedan when they saw a Cadillac touring car ahead of them going in the same direction. In attempting to pass this car Mr. Murphy got too close to the Cadillac and struck it a side blow. The force hurled the Moon across the pavement into a telephone pole. Mr. Murphy and Miss Erb who were in the front seat were instantly killed while the other young man and woman who sat in the rear seat were thrown thru the top of the car but escaped injury. The car was completely wrecked.

In the Cadillac car were three young University women from Madison, Wisconsin. They escaped injury and their car was only slightly damaged.

The inquest was held at Chicago Heights Monday morning.

The Cadillac was driven by three University of Wisconsin co-eds. They were: Miss Florence Killilea, daughter of Henry J. Killilea, counsel for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, Miss Katherine Kennedy of Youngstown, Ohio and Miss Margaret Pergande of Milwaukee, Wis.

The accident occurred while these students were returning to Madison after attending the Illinois-Wisconsin foot ball game at Champaign.

In the rear seat of the wrecked car were Joseph Marthoma and Dorothy King of Chicago Heights. They escaped injury.

MOKENA M. E. TO HOLD ANNUAL BAZAAR DEC. 5th
The Ladies Aid of the M.E. church was entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. Elmer Cooper, Mrs. N. Lauffer and Mrs. B. Hostert assisting. Their annual bazaar will be held at Hatch hall on the afternoon and evening of December fifth.

DRUNKEN AUTOISTS RUN INTO MAIL CRANE AT TINLEY PARK

Saturday night some drunken autoists attempted to drive over the Rock Island tracks east of the depot, where there is no crossing. The autoists came from the street running past the Vogt store. They collided with the mail catcher crane, breaking off the steps. From there they turned west and ran in a ditch and then got out onto the concrete road.

Officer Walter Jorgenson saw them and tried to get up to the car but they escaped before he could find out who they were.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nieman returned Friday morning from a two weeks visit with relatives in Iowa.

TINLEY PARK ZION LUTH. CHURCH DEDICATESS ALTAR

The Zion Lutheran church has a very beautiful new altar, altar covering, new carpet which was dedicated on Sunday, November 4th. Rev. A. Buddenhagen had charge of the dedicatory service. The Mission festival was also held the same morning and was also in charge of the Rev. Mr. Buddenhagen.

The new altar and carpet are a gift from the Ladies Aid society while the altar cover is a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Funk of Oak Forest.

At the Mission service Rev. G. Doerman of Blue Island also spoke. A collection for Mission work was taken and a very good offering is reported.

Hundreds Attend Funeral of Late Mokena Banker

Mokena was deeply grieved Saturday morning when the sad news came that Herbert Moriarty, former cashier of the Mokena State Bank and well known auctioneer had passed away at 3:20 o'clock that morning following a losing fight against disease.

Mr. Moriarty was only 39 years old and it seems a calamity that he had to be taken from his family and community. Early last spring he complained of poor health. After resigning his position as cashier of the local bank, he went to Mayo Bros., at Rochester, Minn., and was in St. Mary's hospital in that city for a number of weeks. Upon his return home he appeared somewhat improved but gradually lost ground and grew steadily worse. Specialists were called, but their skill was of no avail.

Mr. Moriarty was born in New Lenox township on February 24, 1884. On March 23, 1910 he was united in marriage with Miss Rose Bechstein, daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. C. Bechstein of Mokena. To this union two children, a son and a daughter, were born. He has resided here ever since his marriage. He served the Mokena State Bank as cashier for a number of years.

He was well and widely known throughout the countryside and was known as an energetic and shrewd business man. That he was held in high esteem was manifested by the fact that the large new St. John Evangelical church was crowded beyond capacity by those who had come from miles around to pay their final tributes of honor. Between 600 and 700 persons attended the funeral.

The funeral services were held Monday from the late home to the St. John Evangelical church. Practically the whole countryside turned out to pay their final tributes of respect. The floral offerings were beautiful and profuse. Burial took place in St. John's cemetery, Rev. Wm. Kreis officiating.

The deceased leaves to mourn his untimely death, his widow, one son, Francis, one daughter Grace, his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Moriarty besides a host of other relatives and friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our neighbors, friends and relatives for their kindness shown us in our late bereavement, also Rev. Kreis for the beautiful words of consolation.

He had left some valuable insurance papers in the car which were also taken. He had just stepped out of his car and was only gone a few minutes when it was stolen. The theft was at once reported to the police but so far no trace has been found of the car which was insured.

TRAINING OF TEACHERS.

Free schools and compulsory attendance are new experiences. No power of government can bring to them success. If they succeed, it will be through the genuine effort and support that can come only from the heart of the people themselves. It is this condition that makes the position of the teacher rise to such high importance.

The standards which teachers require to maintain are continually rising. Their work takes on a new dignity. It is rising above a calling, above a profession, into the realms of an art. It must be dignified by technical training, ennobled by character, and sanctified by faith. It is not too much to say that the need of civilization is the need of teachers. The contribution which they make to human welfare is beyond estimation. —Calvin Coolidge.

From Nov. 18 to November 24th is educational week. The Mokena school has been considering putting on a program but as no place large enough to accommodate a crowd without crowding could be secured, the plan has been dropped and instead the News-Bulletin is printing a number of articles and excerpts from addresses by famous men on the subject of education, this week. This issue is an educational week number and we hope that the message it brings will find responsive heart and minds in the community it serves. The following article on a parent-teacher association is timely and it would be a mighty good thing if such an organization were established in Mokena, Frankfort, Tinley Park, Orland, Worth and other adjacent towns.

Parent-Teacher Associations.

In the recent past the interest of parents in the schools was not a very close or vital one; it was largely an academic interest. But today cooperation between parents and teachers is an important factor in educational endeavor. It is one of the forward movements in education and peculiarly American in its origin and conception. The importance of this progressive movement is manifest to all who are really interested in the public schools and their problems.

Parents and teachers are now organized in every State in the Union in Alaska, Hawaii, and the Philippines likewise in Cuba, Mexico, Canada, Bahama Islands, China, India, and South America. The two most important factors in the guidance of children are working together in each country named to insure the right kind of men and women for the community.

SAYS CO-OPERATION IS VITAL NEED

Editor News-Bulletin:
I am interested in your campaign to increase the patronage of your home town merchants. This is a move of mutual concern to selling and buying interests alike.

It has been stated that the farmer traders were responsible for keeping Mokena on the map.

Like other districts the farmers of Frankfort township have suffered a term of extreme hardship during the past two years and are not able to show any appreciable returns for investment and labor involved at the present time.

May I suggest that the best and most expedient method of building Mokena would be for each merchant to accord every farmer customer a square deal no matter how small that customer's order may be. As the matter stands we are often compelled against our wish, to look to mail order houses and the large city stores in order to make our milk checks cover the necessary monthly purchases.

I have before me a bill for work done in Mokena which reads as follows:

6 1-2 hours labor $6.50.
53 3-4 lbs. material, 13c per lb.

future citizenship. In 46 States in the United States there are branches of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations. At the 27th annual convention held in Louisville, Ky., it was reported that the total membership exceeded 527,000—over a half a million women and a good number of men—all working through parent-teacher association and a better America.

Parents in rural districts are beginning to realize as never before the value of parent-teacher associations as aids in helping them to solve their problems—educational, social and civic. Rural schools need these organizations perhaps more than city schools because the children in rural schools come from homes that are widely scattered. Parent-teacher associations accomplish much in overcoming the individualistic tendencies of the dweller in rural communities; they promote public opinion regarding the needs of the schools as pointed out by the school boards and the teachers.

The rural child has not always been valued by his parents at his real worth. The importance of his school life has often been underestimated. He has been permitted to stay out of school upon the slightest pretext. Boys and girls have shared alike in this lack of appreciation and indifference in regard to regularity of school attendance. The parent-teacher association puts a new value upon child life and will bring new life into the homes, the school, and the community.

The material used was wholesaling at the time for around $6.25 per cent. f. o. b. Frankfort and if this was time or labor is priced right at $1.00 per hour, then I say a dairy farmer should receive $3.00 per hour for his work.

You may devote every inch of your Bulletin columns to boosting Mokena or you may stand on the street and hurrah for your town, but the only real results will appear when a spirit of co-operation is radiated upon the part of your stores and shops.

They are entitled to a fair profit on sales which is all some are asking, but let others share a little the present depression of the farming industry to which industry they owe their existence and when our condition improves we will gladly share our increased earnings with them.

MOKENA RESIDENT HEARS OF ACCIDENT TO RELATIVE

Mrs. John Semmler received news the past week of an accident which befell her cousin, Miss L. A. Justus in Chicago resulting in a dislocated shoulder. While she was alighting from an elevated train last Wednesday night she stumbled and fell, dislocating her shoulder.

MISS PALMER OF WORTH WEDS LOUIS H. LANGE

Miss Louis Palmer and Louis H. Lange were united in marriage at the Methodist church at Worth on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Mr. Brockhaus of Oak Lawn, Ill.

After the service a bountiful wedding supper was served in the church basement to about sixty guests. Many beautiful presents were received.

The bride is the daughter of Wm. W. Palmer, the well known painter and decorator at Worth. The bridegroom is the son of John C. Lange a prosperous farmer near Worth.

THOMAS PALMER, CIVIL WAR VETERAN OF WORTH, DEAD

Thomas W. Palmer who resides on Fifth Street, died Sunday morning at 3:30 of cancer. Mr. Palmer was a civil war veteran, joining company known as Boutin's Battery, in 1861. He has lived in Worth for the past 21 years.

He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, one son, Wm. W. Palmer of Worth, Ill., a daughter, Mrs. Lester Bartlett of West Chicago, a brother Geo. Palmer of Comanche Oklahoma two sisters, Mrs. L. Wooden, of California, and Mrs. Jennie Reniche of Bonfield, Ill.

ORLAND MOTORCYCLE COP BREAKS LEG IN COLLISION

Motorcycle policeman Peter Danman met with a serious accident on Monday in Orland. He collided with another car and broke his leg. Orland is therefore without police protection. One can notice already that a police man is necessary. Speeding was the rule on Tuesday evening and many cars were parked without a light. We wonder how Orland will get along without a policeman. Lets hope no accidents will occur.

Orland Board meeting on Monday evening was quite interesting. It seems some people are protesting against the improvements contemplated. Let us hope that Orland will move forward and not remain an 1850 village.

Raney's new hall will be opened Thanksgiving eve with a grand ball.

Boys Find Pistol; Shot Kills Girl Riding a Pony

Justamere Farm two miles north of Tinley Park at Goeselville was the scene of a tragedy Monday morning when Mary Catherine Wolf, 10-year old daughter of Robert N. Wolf president of the Sawyer Biscuit company, a granddaughter of the late Roger C. Sullivan, well known Cook County politician, was killed when she was struck by a bullet fired from a revolver with which her brother, Adam, 8 years old, and her cousin, Roger Sullivan, aged 10, were playing.

The accident occurred on the Wolf estate, formerly the old Keith Spaulding farm.

Find Pistol in Auto.

The two boys had been playing in the barn and got into Mrs. Sullivan's Packard car which was parked in the barn and found a revolver in a side pocket of the car. As several attempts have been made to hold up the Sullivans the chauffeur had been granted to permit to carry a gun in the car. The boys thought the pistol was a toy and played with it. On account of intervening shrubbery the boys did not see the little girl, who was sitting on a Shetland pony about 300 feet away. They pointed the pistol in that direction and it was accidentally discharged.

At the time the shot was fired the weapon was in the hands of Roger, a son of Attorney Boetius R. Sullivan, and namesake of the late Democratic chieftain.

John Ragus, a caretaker, heard the shot and looking up saw the little girl pitch forward on the neck of the pony and then gently slide off while one foot was caught in the stirrup. The pony never moved. The caretaker thought the girl had fainted and quickly picking her up he carried her into the house. At first no mark was seen on her but when she was laid on a bed the bullet wound was noticed in her throat. Mrs. Sullivan telephoned to the Midlothian Country Club for a doctor, but upon his arrival the little girl was dead. The bullet had penetrated thru her throat.

Upon leaving the house the caretaker saw the two boys coming from the barn, Roger had the pistol, a Luger automatic, in his hand. He was unaware that anything had happened.

Members of the Sullivan and Wolf families are prostrated over the tragedy.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

The BROWN MOUSE

JENNIE IN POLITICS

SYNOPSIS—Jennie Woodruff, refuses to marry Jim Irwin, young farm hand, because of his financial condition and poor prospects. He is intellectually above his station, and has advanced ideas concerning the possibilities of school teaching and farming, for which he is ridiculed by many. In short, Jim is an off ox. He flunks by himself and reads books and has a philosophy of his own. But there are latent powers in him unsuspected even by himself and Opportunity comes knocking at his door. Jim is nominated for school teacher, as a joke. The joke results in his election. He visits his scholars.

But, true to his belief in honest, thorough work, like a general preparing for battle, he examined his field of operations. His manner of doing this seemed to prove to Colonel Woodruff, who watched it with keen interest as something new in the world, that Jim Irwin was possibly a Brown Mouse. But the colonel knew only a part of Jim's performances. He saw Jim clothed in slickers, walking through rainstorms to the houses in the Woodruff district, as greedy for every moment of rain as a haymaker for shine; and he knew that Jim made a great many evening calls.

But he did not know that Jim was making what our sociologists call a survey. For that matter, neither did Jim; for books on sociology cost more than 25 cents a volume, and Jim had never seen one. However, it was a survey. To be sure, he had long known everybody in the district, save the Simmes—and he was now a friend of all that exotic race; but there is knowing and knowing.

He now had notebooks full of facts about people and their farms. He knew how many acres each family possessed, and what sort of farming each husband was doing—live stock, grain or mixed. He knew about the mortgages, and the debts. He knew whether the family atmosphere was happy and contented, or the reverse. He knew which boys and girls were wayward and insubordinate. He made a record of the advancement in their studies of all the children, and what they liked to read. He knew their favorite amusements. He talked with their mothers and sisters—not about the school, to any extent, but on the weather, the horses, the automobiles, the silo-filling machinery and the profits of farming.

Really, though Jennie Woodruff did not see how such doings related to school work, Jim Irwin's school was running full blast in the homes of the district and the minds of many pupils, weeks and weeks before that day when he called them to order on the Monday specified in his contract as the first day of school.

Con Bonner, who came to see the opening, voiced the sentiments of the older people when he condemned the school as disorderly. To be sure, there were more pupils enrolled than had ever entered on a first day in the whole history of the school, and it was hard to accommodate them all. But the director's criticism was leveled against the free-and-easy air of the children. Most of them had brought seed corn and a good-sized corn show was on view. There was much argument as to the merits of the various entries. Instead of a language lesson from the text-book, Jim had given them an exercise based on an examination of the ears of corn.

The number exercises of the little chaps had been worked out with ears and kernels of corn. One class in arithmetic calculated the percentage of inferior kernels at tip and butt to the full-sized grains in the middle of the ear.

All the time, Jim Irwin, awkward and uncouth, clad in his none-too-good Sunday suit and trying to hide behind his Lincolnian smile the fact that he was pretty badly frightened and much embarrassed, passed among them, getting them enrolled, setting them to work, wasting much time and laboring like a heavy-laden barge in a sea-way.

"That feller'll never do," said Bonner to Bronson next day. "Looks like a tramp in the schoolroom."

"Wearin' his best, I guess," said Bronson.

"Half the kids call him 'Jim,'" said Bonner.

"That's all right with me," replied Bronson.

"The room was as noisy as a caucus," was Bonner's next indictment, "and the flure was all over corn like a hog-pen."

"Oh! I don't suppose he can get away with it," assented Bronson disgustedly, "but that boy of mine is as tickled as a colt with the whole thing. Says he's goin' reglar this winter."

"That's because Jim don't keep no order," said Bonner. "He lets Newt do as he pleases."

"First time he's ever pleased to do anything but deviltry," protested Bronson. "Oh, I suppose Jim'll fall down, and we'll have to fire him—but I wish we could get a good teacher that would git hold of Newt the way he seems to!"

CHAPTER V

The Promotion of Jennie.

If Jennie Woodruff was the cause of Jim Irwin's sudden irruption into the educational field by her scoffing "Humph!" at the idea of a farm-hand's ever being able to marry, she also gave him the opportunity to knock down the driver of the big motorcar, and perceptibly elevate himself in the opinion of the neighborhood, while filling his own heart with something like shame.

The fat man who had said "Cut it out" to his driver, was Mr. Charles Dilly, a business man in the village at the extreme opposite corner of the county. Mr. Dilly was a candidate for county treasurer, and wished to be nominated at the approaching county convention. In his part of the county lived the county superintendent—a candidate for renomination. He was just a plain garden or field county superintendent of schools, no better and no worse than the general political run of them, but he had local pride enlisted in his cause, and was a good politician.

Mr. Dilly was in the Woodruff district to build a backfire against this conflagration of the county superintendent. He expected to use Jennie Woodruff to light it withal. That is, while denying that he wished to make any deal or trade—every candidate in every convention always says that—he wished to say to Miss Woodruff and her father, that if Miss Woodruff would permit her name to be used for the office of county superintendent of schools, a goodly group of delegates could be selected in the other corner of the county who would be glad to reciprocate any favors Mr. Charles J. Dilly might receive in the way of votes for county treasurer with ballots for Miss Jennie Woodruff for superintendent of schools.

Mr. Dilly never inquired as to Miss Woodruff's abilities as an educator. That would have been eccentric. Miss Woodruff never asked herself if she knew anything about rural education which especially fitted her for the task; for was she not a popular and successful teacher—and was not that enough? So are the officials chosen who supervise and control the education of the farm children of America.

When Jim Irwin started home from putting out his team the day after his first call on the Simmes family, Jennie was waiting at the gate to be congratulated on her nomination.

"I hope you're elected," Jim said, holding the hand she had extended; "but there's no doubt of that."

"They say not," replied Jennie; "but father believes in working just as if we didn't have a big majority for the ticket. Say a word for me when on your pastoral rounds."

"All right said Jim, 'what shall I say you'll do for the schools?'"

"Why," said Jennie, rather perplexed, "I'll be fair in my examinations of teachers, try to keep the unfit teachers out of the schools, visit schools as often as I can, and—why, what does any good superintendent do?"

"I never heard of a good county superintendent," said Jim.

"Never heard of one—why, Jim Irwin!"

"I don't believe there is any such thing," persisted Jim, "and if you do no more than you say, you'll be off the same place as the rest. Your system won't give us any better schools than we have—of the old sort—and we need a new kind."

"Oh, Jim, Jim! Dreaming as of yore! Why can't you be practical! What do you mean by a new kind of rural school?"

"It would be correlated with rural life. It would get education out of the things the farmers and farmers' wives are interested in as a part of their lives."

Jennie looked serious, after smothering a laugh.

"Jim," said she, "you're going to have a hard enough time to succeed in the Woodruff school, if you confine yourself to methods that have been tested, and found good."

"But the old methods," urged Jim, "have been tested and found bad. Shall I keep to them?"

"They have made the American people what they are," said Jennie. "Don't be unpatriotic, Jim."

"They have educated our farm children for the cities," said Jim. "This county is losing population—and it's the best county in the world."

"Pessimism never wins," said Jennie.

"Neither does blindness," answered Jim. "It is losing the farms their dwellers, and swelling the cities with a proletariat."

For some time, now, Jim had ceased to hold Jennie's hand; and their sweet-heart days had never seemed farther away.

"Jim," said Jennie, "I may be elected to a position in which I shall be obliged to pass on your acts as teacher—in an official way, I mean. I hope they will be justifiable."

Jim smiled his slowest and saddest smile.

"If they're not, I'll not ask you to condone them," said he. "But first

"Good Night," said Jennie curtly.

they must be justifiable to me, Jennie."

"Good night," said Jennie curtly, and left him.

Jennie, I am obliged to admit, gave scant attention to the new career upon which her old sweetheart seemed to be entering. She was in politics, and was playing the game as became the daughter of a local politician. Col. Albert Woodruff went South with the army as a corporal in 1861, and came back a lieutenant. His title of colonel was conferred by appointment as a member of the staff of the governor, long years ago, when he was county auditor. He was not a rich man, as I may have suggested, but a well-to-do farmer, whose wife did her own work much of the time, not because the colonel could not afford to hire "help," but for the reason that "hired girls" were hard to get.

The colonel, having seen the glory of the coming of the Lord in the triumph of his side in the great war, was inclined to think that all reform had ceased, and was a political stand-patter—a very honest and sincere one. Moreover, he was influential enough so that when Mr. Cummins or Mr. Dolliver came into the county on political errands, Colonel Woodruff had always been called into conference. He was of the old New England type, believed very much in heredity, very much in the theory that whatever is right, in so far as it has secured money or power.

A very respectable, honest, American was the colonel, fond of his political sway, and rather soured by the fact that it was passing from him. He had now broken with Cummins and Dolliver as he had done years ago with Weaver and later with Larrabee—and this breach was very important to him, whether they were greatly concerned about it or not.

Such being her family history, Jennie was something of a politician herself. She was in no way surprised when approached by party managers on the subject of accepting the nomination for county superintendent of schools. Colonel Woodruff could deliver some delegates to his daughter, though he rather shied at the proposal at first, but on thinking it over, warmed somewhat to the notion of having a Woodruff on the county payroll once more.

"I want a new kind of rural school, but I don't see any prospect—"

The High Priest of Our Confession

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—We have such a high priest.—Heb. 8:1.

The Hebrews epistle opens with the declaration of the glories of Christ and of His exaltation at God's right hand because of the finished work of the cross in which He has forever put away sin. But it proceeds to display the unfinished work in which He is now engaged on our behalf in the presence of God. As the High Priest of our confession He represents us in the holiest and presents us before God in all His own perfections and glories.

His Call to the Priesthood.

Of the priests of Aaron's line it is said in chapter 5:4: "And no man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron," and of our High Priest it is added: "So also Christ glorified not himself to be made an high priest; but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, to-day have I begotten thee." Now this quotation from the second Psalm has been declared in Acts 13:33 to apply to Christ in His resurrection. It is not therefore His virgin birth that is contemplated, but "This day have I begotten thee" from the dead. God's salutation to His Son as He comes forth from the grave is His call to the priesthood.

Then, in chapter 7 it is further declared that not alone by the call of God but by His oath Christ has been made a priest: "For those priests were made without an oath; but this with an oath by him that said unto him, the Lord sware and will not repent, Thou art a priest forever after the order of Melchizedec."

Must God take an oath? He has done so, not once but thrice, and that threefold oath has to do with the future glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. In the one hundred and tenth psalm, quoted here, it guarantees to Him not only a perpetual priesthood but an empire when He shall come to assume His crown rights, for Melchizedec was both a priest and a king.

Thus by the call and the oath of God our Lord Jesus Christ appears in heaven on our behalf.

The Priest's Entrance Into the Sanctuary.

In chapter 9 the tabernacle and the typical ceremonies of the day of atonement are described. Of the two goats brought to the priest on that day one was slain, and the priest taking its blood inside the veil, sprinkled it upon the mercy seat. That mercy seat was God's throne. Between the outstretched wings of the cherubim that formed a part of it appeared the cloud of glory, symbol of Jehovah's presence among His people. The cherubim are the representatives of His throne and the symbols of His righteousness. Their attitude is significant. It is as though they were swooping down to execute the judgment required by God's righteousness, when they are suddenly arrested in their flight by the sight of the blood. The blood of that innocent victim, shed outside, has met the demands of the throne so that it becomes a mercy seat. This ceremony is referred to in 9:7, and verse 11 proceeds: "But Christ being come, an high priest of good things, to come . . . neither by the blood of goats . . . but by His own blood he entered once into the holiest, having eternal redemption."

Aaron, on the day of atonement, obtained redemption for a year, and at the year's end the ceremony was repeated. But Christ has obtained eternal redemption. With His own blood, most precious thing that God ever be held, He has gone into heaven. That blood, shed by your sins and mine, has been placed upon God's throne and thus has met every claim of that throne, forever satisfying all its righteous demands. The memorial of the finished work is ever before the eye of God. The throne of the universe has become the throne of grace. Thus God without compromising Himself can be gracious to sinners. This is answered the question of Romans: How can God be God and a Savior? How can He justify the ungodly and still be just? The blood of the cross upon the throne answers the question. "Whom God hath set forth a mercy-seat through faith in His blood." If grace reigns, it is not at the expense of righteousness, but on account of it. How deep is our interest in that Blessed One who has gone to heaven?

Joy in the Holy Ghost.

"The Kingdom of God is joy." When our life is righted with God, when there comes into our hearts an unbroken peace, there also springs up in the life a deep and quiet joy. Is righteousness the pole star of our lives? Is peace the music of our hearts? If so, there springs up in our hearts joy, but not as the world counts joy; no earthly passion, no transitory excitement, but the inward satisfaction of joy in the Holy Ghost.

A Thought for the Day.

It is better to make a statement that will challenge attention and discussion than to make one that is readily accepted and then dismissed.

Every Farm Needs Two

EVERY farm needs two automobiles, one of which should be a closed model Chevrolet.

The open touring car is best for general farm use, carrying passengers or perhaps miscellaneous bulky produce or merchandise, but for cold or rainy weather, and for church or social use the family needs a closed car, either a 2-passenger Utility Coupé as illustrated, or the 5-passenger Sedan. The extra large rear compartment is a feature of the Coupé.

These closed cars are very finely made, furnished, upholstered and trimmed. The windows are of plate glass and can be lowered, providing as much air as an open car, yet affording full protection against wind, rain, snow or cold when raised.

With a second car on a farm, one is always available for those at home when the other car is out.

The low prices of Chevrolet make the ownership of two cars feasible for most farm families.

WIDENS MARKET FOR MEAT

United States Department of Agriculture Gives Hog Raisers Additional Outlet.

A wider market for United States meats, particularly pork, has been made available by the efforts of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State department, the most recent evidence of it being the opening of The Netherlands to shipments of fresh pork. This new market, with the English market, which was opened to the same products about 18 months ago, now gives hog raisers a considerable additional outlet at a time when production is at a high point.

The Public Demand.

"Aren't you going to make a speech?"

"There's a Reason"

Scheme to Brace Your Aerial Mast

Wire Fastened to Top of Pole May Be Stretched to Bottom.

In almost every community a visiting amateur generally finds a few unsightly, sagging poles that give radio a "black eye." It happened that a man had a very thin pole he wished to erect that was about 25 feet high. Now, a mast of these dimensions is easily bent by the slightest pull of the aerial or wind, but it was found that if a piece of heavy galvanized guy wire was stretched as a sort of truss, as is shown in the illustration, the mast was held straight.

It is best to fasten the wire securely to the top of the mast and then stretch it to the bottom and fasten it there with nails or bolts. Then a short piece of wood, "A," is forced between the pole and the wire, as shown. This piece of wood should be securely fastened to the pole with nails or screws and a large staple should be hammered over the wire at the other end.

When the wire and stick "A" are in place it may be found that the pole bends backwards, due to the tension of the wire, but when the aerial is erected the strain will be neutralized and a straight pole will result.

Using this method, poles 25 to 30 feet high can be held rigid without the aid of external guys which makes this type of bracing especially desirable in crowded cities where it is impossible to secure permission to string guy wires on the adjoining property.

Vernier Rheostat May Be Easily Constructed

A close control of the filament current is sometimes a great convenience, especially with some types of detector tubes which require critical adjustment. If the vernier rheostat illustrated is used in series with the ordinary type of rheostat it will greatly facilitate this.

To construct this vernier, procure a wooden base about 2 1/2 inches square, two screws, two binding posts, a switch lever and a piece of resistance wire.

Detector Tubes Are Sometimes So Critical That It Is a Great Convenience to Use a Vernier Rheostat Like This One.

Assemble the parts as shown in the diagram, connecting A and A' to B and B'. The resistance wire is merely fastened to the screws, A and C, and allowed to spring upward, thus pressing upon the switch lever. This device will be a help in tuning for C. W. and phone.

SHORT CIRCUITS

Sometimes, in building a two-step amplifier, the radio fan is tempted to leave out the jack for the first stage of amplification. This is a big mistake, because using one stage and the receivers is the best way to bring in the distant signals. When the second stage is used, the tube noises become so great that it is frequently difficult to really bring in a distant station. On the other hand, the first stage is free of this kind of noise and will be found to be the ideal combination.

In order to avoid trouble, never do any transmitting until you have a proper license. There is a large fine for illegal transmitting and it is also possible that you may have to forfeit your set. Get a license and be on the safe side.

Wires from A and B battery to the set should be made of stranded or heavy copper wire, so that there is a minimum of resistance. Never put the storage or A battery far away from the set.

Take care of the B battery wires. If they happen to have bare spots in them, and these get together, the battery will become short circuited and a very few seconds of this will be sufficient to completely ruin the battery.

Things to Give for Christmas

FANCY NEEDLEWORK

Everybody goes about the ordinary business of life, in plain dresses of dark woolen cloth, that depend upon collar and cuff sets to lend them variety and a dainty flavor. Therefore these sets are among the most acceptable of Christmas gifts. An endless variety of embroideries in white or in bright colors, comes by the yard, in straight or curved sections. One has only to stitch these sections to bands of lawn, to make a set like that pictured. Other sets are made of net, lace and sheer fabrics—the last finished with needlework in embroidery or fancy stitches.

LACE DANCE HATS

Gold or silver lace and a bit of gay chiffon or malines will serve to make the pretty dance cap, with soft crown and up-rolling brim, as shown here. Tiny flowers at the front and a ribbon sash adorn it. The brim is supported by two fine wires.

SCREEN FOR TELEPHONE

Either men or women friends will appreciate a pretty telephone screen for a gift. Here is one with a foundation of cardboard, covered with satin and ornamented with triangles of tapestry or figured ribbon, finished with gold braid. The reverse side is lined with plain silk.

FOR HOUSEWIVES

Housewives will appreciate holders for handling hot dishes and kitchen utensils. They are simply squares made of bright cretonne, padded with woolen cloth. A container for them is provided with a hanger, so that they can be hung up near the kitchen stove.

SAYS HIS PRESCRIPTION HAS POWERFUL INFLUENCE OVER RHEUMATISM

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.—Advertisement.

Judging a Great Institution by Small Defects

By J. H. PUELICHER
President American Bankers Association.

It would be difficult to find a banker, understanding thoroughly the Federal Reserve System, willing to admit that we could continue a first-class commercial nation, without the Federal Reserve Banks, or mechanisms similar to them. Yet there is antagonism to the Federal Reserve Banks based in a measure on some minor mistakes in administration, but more generally on a misunderstanding of their purposes, of what should be expected of such a system.

The banker, as much as any man, is to blame for the present misconception. He found Federal Reserve Banks a ready scapegoat to blame for no matter what happened. If it seemed desirable to refuse or call a loan it was easy to say that the Federal Reserve Bank wished it, although it should have been refused because contrary to good banking practice.

Most of all was the system blamed for the fact that violent inflation which hundreds of business men and bankers hoped might be continued forever was finally checked by putting up Federal Reserve interest rates. There were those who blamed the system for not having put up the rate soon enough and others who blamed it because it put up the rate at all.

The penalty for thus blaming every business mishap on this valuable system may be the loss of its much needed benefits. If we wish to save the present bank of the United States from the fate of its two predecessors we must make known to America, to its rank and file, the splendid usefulness of these institutions.

We must admit at the outset that in their administration mistakes have been made, that governors of Federal Reserve Banks and members of the Federal Reserve Board are human beings, and in the administration of the affairs of any institution by human beings mistakes will be made, but these have been so insignificant as compared with the outstanding usefulness of the institutions themselves that they should be judged by the good which they have performed, which, after all, has been along the line of their designed achievement, rather than by these errors which time and experience can easily eliminate.

COOPERATIVE FARM MARKETING NOTES

Progress of the Movement to "Put Farming on Par With Other Big Business."

A pamphlet and questionnaire on co-operative farm marketing recently issued by the State Bank Division, American Bankers Association, has brought out valuable information on the subject from bankers, farmers and state agricultural departments. It is being used as a campaign document in the organization of co-operative marketing associations in various sections of the country, farmers having adopted its slogan: "Put Agriculture on a Par with Other Big Business."

The movement on the part of farmers toward co-operative marketing as a cure for their present economic plight is nation-wide. There has been notable progress in the development of such associations, some conspicuously successful ones being in operation at the present time. There have also been some disastrous failures among these ventures in co-operative marketing, which is the inevitable accompaniment of the progress of any movement. The "Banker-Farmer," published by the American Bankers Association, says:

"Cause and effect are operative in co-operative marketing as truly as they are in every other business enterprise. An association will not necessarily succeed or fail merely because it is a co-operative association, but because it conforms to or transgresses from the underlying principles of successful business operation. The movement itself is of great national import and the bankers of the country can materially aid or retard its progress. The responsibility of leadership in rural communities rests very largely with the country banker. It is his duty to be informed on all matters relating to the farmers' well-being."

Modern conditions are such that agriculture cannot be successful by individual effort. To regain its position as a basic industry, and as a force in national affairs, agriculture must depend upon organization and co-operation for economic production, for economic marketing and for the establishment of its proper relationship in community life. — Howard Leonard, President, Illinois Agricultural Association.

Hottest Flame Known to Aid in Study of Planets

What is declared to be the hottest flame known to man has been produced by artificial means in experiments held to study the form of atoms. An electric blast, lasting for only a small part of a second, occurring on a charged wire, seemed to explode, creating heat so intense that it could not be measured, although estimates put it at 30,000 to 30,000 degrees. Pictures taken as the explosions occur are expected to aid astronomers in solving the causes for different kinds of light thrown off by many of the planets.

Crafting Cotton to Tree Makes Crops Richer

Grafting a single cotton plant to the root of a mulberry tree has produced 900 bolls, or pods, where formerly 40 was a good crop. The process, an invention of a southern plant breeder, is being widely watched because of the possibilities it offers in reducing the cost of cotton. Some of these grafted plants are nearly 8 feet tall and have well-developed fibers, called staples. The production rate is greatly increased, three mother plants giving about 60 pounds of seed cotton, or four bolls per acre.

Make Explosive from Sawdust

A new explosive compound in which ordinary sawdust replaces the nitroglycerin used in most high explosives, has recently been announced by the chemistry department of the University of Washington. It is estimated that the explosive can be made to sell at about one-third the cost of commercial dynamite, as neither the ammonium nitrate, which forms 80 per cent of the mixture, nor the sawdust making up the balance, is an expensive material. It is claimed to be practically smokeless, and that the fumes do not cause physical inconvenience to the user; that it can only be exploded by detonation, that it does not require thawing, and does not burn readily.

Auto Emergency Headlights

When the headlights of an automobile are "out of commission," owing to a ground or a short, one or both of them can still be used, providing there is a trouble lamp in the car. The trouble-lamp socket is removed, and the wire attached to the headlight plug, replacing the usual wires. The cord is then run from the dash-lamp socket to one of the headlights, as shown, or better still, by means of an extra length of cord, it can be connected to both headlights, in parallel. It is a good idea to be prepared.

TO most emergencies of this nature by carrying an extra trouble cord, fitted with a plug of each end.

URGES BANK ADS IN NEWSPAPERS

Banker Tells National Association They Are Essential Aids to Business Building.

PRESENTS PRACTICAL PLAN

Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers Association Offers Prepared Newspaper Advertising Service to Cover a Year's Campaign.

More newspaper advertising by banks as a business builder was strongly urged at the recent convention of the American Bankers Association by W. R. Morehouse of the organization's Savings Bank Division. He backed up his plea with definite action to stimulate advertising by savings banks by calling the attention of the members to a prepared newspaper advertising service developed by his division comprising copy to meet their requirements for a year's advertising schedule.

"It is my firm conviction that banks can use newspaper advertising with great success," Mr. Morehouse said. "Newspapers go into the homes—by their use as a medium the people of a whole community may be reached in a single day. Because a bank cannot directly trace a large volume of new business to newspaper advertising does not prove that the medium is ineffective as a business-builder."

"The fact that there are certain kinds of newspaper advertising which do not produce good results ought not to brand the medium as ineffective, any more than the fact that because a certain booklet or certain business-building letter fails to pull would warrant you in branding all booklets and all letters as non-productive mediums."

How to Advertise

"Newspaper advertising must be attractive and easily read if it is to produce good results. If the subject presented is not to the point, is too deeply involved for the average mind to grasp readily, is too full of big and uncommon words, it is only natural that it will not be read. If bank advertising is to accomplish its purpose it must be very simple."

"Discuss only the subjects which will make it easy for the public to patronize your bank. Advertise your bank, its financial stability, its officers, directors and stockholders and you will build prestige and strengthen public confidence in your institution. Enumerate the various kinds of service your bank is prepared to render. It has been my experience that the public is on the lookout for information about banks, banking methods and the kinds of service rendered by banks. For quick results I am a firm believer in sticking to subjects which have a direct bearing on banks, banking methods and service, until the public has become better informed about banks and the wide variety of services rendered by them."

A New Plan

"If you have not been successful with newspaper advertising try this plan. Confine your advertising within the scope of banking and especially enumerate the various services which your bank is prepared to offer. Roll down every advertisement to one hundred words or less, preferably less. Use headings which arouse interest at a glance. For example, a head 'INTEREST FROM DATE' will inspire action on the part of persons with idle funds to deposit because interest starts from the time savings accounts are opened. A heading 'PROTECTION FOR YOUR VALUABLES' will inspire action on the part of persons in need of protection."

HOW TO CATCH FAKE STOCK SALESMEN

Some state bankers' associations are distributing an investor's questionnaire with the idea of protecting purchasers of securities from fake stock salesmen.

"Whenever you are solicited to purchase stock or other securities, use this questionnaire before investing any of your funds," says one of these. "The questionnaire was compiled to protect the small investor and to emphasize the necessity of investigating thoroughly every investment proposition before placing any money therein. When you have been furnished with the information called for in this questionnaire, take it to any one of the banking institutions in your community and get its opinion of the stock offered. If the stock salesman refuses to fill out this questionnaire, have nothing more to do with his proposition, as it is evident that he is fostering a fraudulent promotion."

The questionnaire pins the salesman down to answering the following questions:

Date
Name of company
Name of salesman
Kind of stock offered
Total issue of stock
Stock given for property
Stock given for good-will
Stock given for patents
Are you taking any Liberty Bonds?

THE BASELESS FEAR OF FINANCE'S POWER

By WALTER W. HEAD
President American Bankers Association.

We speak of "coal"; immediately we visualize a pile of black lumps. We speak of "wheat"; in our mind we picture a golden field of grain or perhaps the farmer's load en route to market.

Finance is not a commodity. Being an intangible thing, it is greatly misunderstood. It means one thing to some people, another to others.

By reason of this mystery surrounding it, it is too frequently feared, and financiers assailed as enemies of the public good, using their power selfishly to advance their own purposes.

No nation or people ever achieved greatness without the assistance of finance—accumulated capital, managed and directed by those skilled in the handling of wealth and money. Accumulated resources are represented at times by hoards of gold, but more frequently by ships, herds, and other productive agencies.

America measures her resources in terms of billions of dollars. She has thousands of prosperous homes, myriads of well developed villages and towns, thousands of miles of railroads and paved roads. This has been possible through the investment and use of capital or wealth created and accumulated by the citizens.

When the early pioneers first traveled over the prairies, which are now rich and productive fields, their resources consisted only of a productive soil, a healthful climate, and the sunshine and rain necessary to the growth of vegetation.

As the early settlers wrought and produced and prospered, they saved. These savings they invested in the tools of production—plows, harrows, binders, stores, railroads, banks and manufacturing enterprises. THESE SAVINGS "FINANCED" PROGRESS. The building of the railroads was the great outstanding contribution of finance to the development of the West. The West owes a debt of gratitude to the investors in eastern states who ventured to invest their money in virgin territory, making possible development by the use of their accumulated resources.

Bank deposits represent very largely the savings of the people. The loans they make possible are employed in productive enterprises. The development of the agricultural communities depends very largely upon the credits extended by investors in other communities. The development of municipalities is possible very largely through the sale of municipal bonds to investors in other places. All this is the work of finance.

WAGES HERE AND ABROAD

THE American factory worker is receiving wages the purchasing power of which is above the wages paid in any other country of the world. The British Ministry of Labor has made a computation of the amount of food which the wages of workers in different cities of the world will purchase. In the following table the purchasing power of wages in London is taken as 100, and the purchasing power of wages in other cities is shown as percentage of this figure. The table indicates that the worker in New York can buy more than twice as much food with his wages than can the worker in London, while the worker in Berlin or Vienna can buy only a little more than half as much with his daily wage as the worker in London, or only one-fourth as much as the worker in New York.

An important factor in the differences between the rewards of workers is that the productivity of the American worker has been greatly increased through the use of large investments of capital for machinery.—Journal of the American Bankers Association.

WHAT AGRICULTURE NEEDS

A recent summary of the agricultural situation grouped the needs as follows:

1. Increased and balanced production
 2. Increased understanding of credit facilities
 3. Increased market facilities
 4. Better business methods
- The Agricultural Colleges are working out production problems, the banks the credit problems and co-operative associations appear to be greatly improving marketing facilities and business methods.

WOULD MAKE FARMER LOAN DEPEND ON PRACTICE OF CROP DIVERSITY

Farmers and Bankers Are Economic Team Mates, but Obligation Rests on Farmer to Protect Soil and Balance Crops, Says D. H. Otis.

By D. H. OTIS

Director, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

THE banker may properly be considered the team mate of the farmer, and as such must work in perfect harmony. Economic conditions demand it. The work is too heavy. It requires a team. The interdependence of the farmer and banker is so close that self-preservation demands that they pull together. If agriculture fails we all fail. There are no two industries that offer greater opportunities for mutual helpfulness, for increasing profits and bank deposits than do banking and farming.

The Banker-Farmer movement presents a program that reaches down through the surface to the very roots of things. It recognizes the truth that bank prosperity depends not upon the prosperity of a few but upon the prosperity of all and especially of the average man and the average woman. In the last analysis we must recognize a community of interest, "each for all and all for each."

Periods of low farmer purchasing power are invariably followed by a decided increase in the number of business failures. When the income per acre is increased from one to two dollars there is a direct effect in decreasing the number of business failures and, vice versa, with a decrease of one to two dollars in the income per acre, business failures mount steadily upward.

City Bankers and Country Conditions

Bankers, if anybody, are affected more quickly and more directly than other business men. A period of agricultural depression is immediately noticeable in the balances that the country bank carries with its city correspondent. City banks are beginning to recognize this. Many of them are taking an active interest in the Banker-Farmer movement.

There are some fundamentals in farming with which all business men should be familiar. A bank would not long succeed if it should continue to use its capital stock for running expenses. Neither will the farmer. Farmers have been living not upon the interest from their investments but upon their principal. Almost every effort by American farmers has resulted in decreasing the fertility of the soil. The banker who drives into the country and observes this process of mining the fertility from the land should feel that to that extent the resources of his bank are being sapped.

Yet some of our bankers are continuing to loan money to the one-crop farmer. When such a farmer comes around for a loan the banker should make the loan on the condition that he keep at least one cow, one sow and a couple of dozen hens, at least enough livestock to feed his own family. Agriculture is sick, production is unbalanced. Farmers are paying freight and other overhead charges on food products they ought to be raising at home.

Less Time for Agitators

More diversified farming may mean less automobile riding; it ought to. Our economic problems cannot be solved unless we are willing to work. The one-crop farmer is not performing his share of work. He needs profitable employment throughout the year. Loading on the farm ought to be made unpopular. Business men work throughout the year. Why shouldn't the farmer? If he did, there would be less time to listen to the agitator. The latter only increases discontent, makes men less capable and prolongs the time of recovery. The farmer must work his way out and not look in vain for the Government to legislate high prices.

But if we get our farmers to working full time will we not have over-production? This over-production cry blinds us to the real issue. There may be times when certain crops, because of climatic or economic conditions, are unprofitable and yet there are other crops that are profitable in a well worked out system of diversification. In the livestock sections we seldom hear of an over-production of alfalfa or clover. In all sections of the country we are importing either food or feed that we ought to be raising at home. Our cropping systems need to be readjusted to meet present needs. We need to do just a little more constructive thinking.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON I.

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman, Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Why banks? To facilitate the exchange of goods and services, says the economist.

FACILITATE = make easy.

GOODS = food, clothing, necessities, comforts, luxuries.

SERVICES = the work that goes into manufacturing, into crop-raising, into selling, buying, bookkeeping, financing—into all man's wants.

The FARMER sells his crop for money. The WORKMAN sells his labor for money. The MANUFACTURER sells his product for money, and the money is used to buy what the others have grown or produced—used in the exchange of goods and services which the banks facilitate.

FARMER-BANKER MEETING NOTES

A recent farmer-banker conference, held at Fargo, North Dakota, as one of a series being held under the auspices of the Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, to aid in developing permanently better agricultural conditions, was productive of a number of valuable and definite measures for a program of action.

Reduction of wheat acreage: It was recommended that the farmers reduce acreage 30 per cent from that of 1923.

Diversified farming: The conference declared that the ultimate success of agriculture depends upon proper diversification.

Orderly marketing: Financial support was approved to assist the orderly marketing of farm products.

Encourage Homeseekers: Support was pledged to all movements designed to encourage home seekers.

Recommendations for immediate relief: Bankers and business men were urged to assist in providing storage facilities at once to meet the needs of their home communities. The bankers were urged to accept storage certificates for loans on the stored grain and if their reserves prevented them from carrying the storage certificate it was urged that the Intermediate Credit Banks be asked to discount these certificates for the banks.

Resolutions looking toward legislative relief were adopted, and a special committee appointed to follow them up. The resolutions were as follows: Calling for the establishment of some governmental agency as an emergency measure for orderly marketing and selling separately the exportable wheat surplus.

Protesting against the drawback provision in the Fordney-McCumber law and urging the enactment of that in the Dingley law, the Paine law and the Underwood law.

Opposing the reduction of the tariff on flax seed of flax products or feeder cattle.

MERCHANT CREDIT EXPENSIVE

Investigations indicate that farmers may be materially benefited by demonstrating to them the losses they incur through the use of merchant credit instead of bank credit. In conferences arranged by the Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, it has frequently developed that farmers in many instances are thoughtlessly carrying heavy burdens of mercantile credit.

The cost to farmers of merchant credit often runs as high as 50 per cent annually. The United States Department of Agriculture has made surveys of credit and insurance conditions in North Carolina, in which eight hundred farmers were interviewed, and which showed that 433 were relying on merchant credit. The average cost was 26.6 per cent, figured annually. The average rate paid by white farmers was 21.8 per cent, while that for the colored was 32.2 per cent. This difference is attributed to the smaller average amount of credit used by the colored farmers, the greater risk involved in credit to them and to an inclination to the advantage of the less fortunate class.

Mokena Pastor Says War is Wrong

An Armistice day service was held at the Mokena M. E. church Sunday night and Rev. Roy Magnus preached a very stirring and vital sermon on the subject "War Is All Wrong."

Rev. Magnus showed that the conviction is growing rapidly that war is all wrong, economically, religiously, morally and in every other way and should be banished from the earth.

He further pointed out that when the World War was on we were told so many things which are now showing up as a sort of a will o' the wisp and we are just emerging from a big dissolution and are finding that the very things we fought for are not being fulfilled and that things are in a far worse stage than before the war. The Great War took a toll of 46,000,000 lives besides an expenditure of $300,000,000,000 which was a waste. For this amount every child could have been given a high school education, a dozen Panama canals could be built and the whole nation provided with concrete highways.

War is only for destruction. We hear so much about the glories of war. War makes murderers of men. A soldier is only a cog in a great machine and must obey the orders from higher authority whether it be to run a man thru with a bayonet, bomb a school or church or torpedo a ship. Man loses all personality in war and a soldier fires on another soldier of an opposing army as only a mere target. War degrades and cheapens human life, is against the teachings of Jesus Christ and has no place on earth.

Rev. Magnus further showed that the World War could not be justified in any way. We were told this war when won would end all other wars and make a lasting peace, but this is not true for at this moment Europe is an armed camp and plotting and planning for another war, which if it does come will mean the wiping out of civilization itself.

We were told that America's entry into the World War was to make the world safe for democracy, but this has proven to be wrong and it now means that Democracy must be made safe for the world.

Rev. Magnus quoted excerpts from speeches made by great statesmen in which they show that war is wrong. He said that the terms of peace are made by plotting, crafty statesmen who do all the hating and force the people into war and these terms instead of making for peace are only breeders of future wars. If these same statesmen had to undergo the sufferings and hardships of war the peace terms would be different.

Another salient point brought out was that the churches instead of banishing war have been glorifying war and have been going against the teachings of Christ themselves. A great responsibility rests upon the churches today for if another war should come than the professing Christians who uphold war will be responsible for every life that is lost and for every dollar that is wasted for war is only waste.

He read an excerpt from an address made by Lloyd George during his recent tour in America in which he said that if another war came then the churches of Europe and America had better close their doors. He further said that many of the churches declare war is wrong, but the minute the war clouds arise they throw their power and influence in favor of war.

Rev. Magnus made a vital statement when he said that peace will only come on earth when the spirit of love will be the controlling force instead of hate, greed and destruction. The brotherhood of man is the only salvation. He made it plain that a league of nations or a world court are the most feasible plans for ending war and that nations should settle their differences by arbitration in a world court as individuals do in civil cases.

There are said to be 500,000,000 Christians in the world and Rev. Magnus declared that if only 25,000,000 of these Christians took a decided stand against war it could be banished from the earth in this generation.

We were also told this was a war for justice, but instead it has been one of injustice for more injustice is being done today in business, socially and religiously than ever before.

We admire ev. Mr. Magnus for his frank and truthful statements and hope that the church as a whole will wake up and use its great moral force to end war forever. War is only a murderer's game. In civil life if a man kills another he is a murderer and is punished, but in war the more men a soldier kills the greater a hero is he when in fact he is only an arch murderer. It is the church and the church alone which can banish war forever. The horrors of war should be so vividly pictured that everyone would be so disgusted with war and despise it so that no one would enter an army and fight. Let the big leaders and statesmen who do all the big plotting and scheming fight their own wars and war would soon be a thing of the past as it should and must be.

The cacao tree is an evergreen and bears fruit and flowers all the year round, but the usual times for gathering the fruit are June and December. Chocolate is made from the seed of beans. When oil is extracted it makes cocoa butter, and the residue is ground and marketed as cocoa.

Just a Word Why Churches Should Advertise

The writer was in Syracuse, N. Y., one Sunday last August. He was detained because of an accident to his car. He wanted to go to church that night, but he didn't know where to go. He picked up the Syracuse Sunday paper and looked through it from the front page to the back, but there wasn't a word about the church or the church services. As far as the papers were concerned that city might have been churchless.

But it wasn't so with the movies and other houses of entertainment. Oh, no! Their invitations were spread in large advertisements all over the page. There were a dozen or so invitations to go out on Sunday night for amusement, but not one to go to the House of God.

Possibly the church notices appeared in the Saturday issue. They generally do, but this was Sunday and the Sunday paper was the one available. The amusement places do not overlook the Sunday papers.

There may have been many more in the city with the same thoughts and desire as the writer. He happened to remember that sometimes the churches have bulletins in the hotel corridors, so he took the trouble to go downstairs. Being a Methodist, he looked for the Methodist churches. There were two on the board, so he picked out one and took a chance.

We suppose that some will say that a man or woman who wants to go to church will find a way. That's true, but why permit the theatres to have the monopoly? Isn't the church a business? If it isn't, it's time it was. Think it over.

Changing Color With Heat.

Members of the Physical society in London were interested at a recent meeting by an exhibition of specimens of paint which change their color with variations of the temperature. One of these paints is red at ordinary temperatures, but turns black in a few seconds when warmed in front of a stove, or otherwise heated to 203 degrees Fahrenheit. Another paint is yellow until heated to a temperature of 113 degrees Fahrenheit, when it becomes dark red. They are called "heat-indicating paints," but are little more than scientific curiosities.

MOKENA

Rev. Hugo Stammer, well known to residents of Mokena, was very pleasantly and completely surprised last Sunday evening in honor of his half century of pastoral service, when the Chicago Pastoral Kreise and the members of the congregation of the St. John Evangelical church of Chicago arranged and carried out a golden anniversary program in honor of the occasion at the church mentioned of which Rev. Stammer was pastor for many years. A very elaborate program was carried out.

Rev. K. A. John, who preached at the Mokena St. John Evangelical church at one time shortly after the late Rev. C. Schnaub had resigned from the local pastorate, was the speaker of the evening and delivered the anniversary sermon. He also read a beautiful poem he had composed for the occasion. Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

SELF-ADMIRATION

IT IS not always those persons who admire themselves most, who think themselves beautiful, talented or witty, who succeed in winning admiration from others.

In this egotistic stage of feeling there is a distinct emotion of complacency with respect to self, accompanied with pride which usually distorts the mental faculties and dulls the vision.

To regard yourself with respect is commendable, but to shape your life and actions so that others shall pay you homage is far more desirable.

When you praise yourself before the mirror there is but one critic, a slave to your whim, bound to obey your slightest wish.

The world is more daring, and openly disregards the commanding emotions of the individual and speaks more plainly.

It gets rather close to the truth, which is uttered more or less bluntly, quite regardless of your feelings.

So if by any chance your exalted opinion of your good looks and fine capabilities should succeed in winning the world's approbation, you may rest assured of your worthlessness.

No one can demolish the truth with a smile or a scowl. The truth is that those mortals who incline to self-admiration are not generally nunnal red among those at the top of the ladder.

The climb is too strenuous. It is apt to soil the hands, tire the brain and weary the body, though there is payment made for all damages in refreshing sleep and a pleasurable power of excellence, the joy of which the simple self-admirer can never experience.

Whatever qualifications the conceited may possess, their ever-ruling selfishness prevents them from recognizing good in others.

They are vain, envious, sufficient unto themselves, seldom to be found among the masters in any worthy calling where perseverance and stability of character play the leading role.

They court admiration, but stubbornly refuse to bestow it upon worthy friends.

To be admired is their chief purpose in life; indeed, it seems to be life itself. And herein lies the difference between them and the lofty aspiring souls, whose chief pleasure is found in doing good and bringing happiness to others, by praising and giving them encouragement, forgetting self-landation.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because—

By ETHEL R. PEYSER

You talk with an accent?

Many people do not know the difference between an accent and polite and careful English. You are, no doubt, told that you are affected because you use a broad A. You are affected, they say, because you use the word been, as bean and not as bin. You don't say "ain't," and you don't say a lot of jazzy words, and on the whole you say what you mean without slangy short cuts which always spoil the list of words you have in your possession. Never mind; let them laugh at you; pretty soon they will be wondering how you get such good jobs, such a good mate, such interesting times! Let them laugh!

SCHOOL DAYS

Uncommon Sense — By — JOHN BLAKE

SEEING THE WORLD

YOU will visit this world for perhaps twenty, perhaps eighty years. You will find it a very interesting world—if you look about, while you are here.

Your time will be limited, of course—even if you live more than the allotted span. To see one hundredth part of what there is to see, you will have to be very busy.

But it will be worth your while. You will leave it with a much more contented spirit if you know that you have seen all you could see during your stay. You can only do that by very close observation, and by learning all you can about how really to see what is to be seen.

If you were to go to London or Paris, or to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado you would not need to be told to use your eyes. You would feel pretty foolish, returning from such a journey if you could not describe what you had seen—if it left your memory as poorly stocked as before.

Yet the world is many times more interesting than London or Paris. There is nothing within range of your eyes, no matter where you are, that is not interesting.

Every stone in the road has a story, which you can read if you find out how to read it. The world itself, its daily revolutions, its great sweep about the sun, the envelope of air in which it whirls, how it is lighted, heated, supplied with all the needs of its human population—these are absorbing studies, all well worth taking up.

For thousands of years thoughtful, observant people have been studying it, and putting the results of their studies into books, for your benefit.

Read these books—or as many of them as you can. Make independent observations. See as much of the world as it is possible to see while you are in it. Your stay will be brief at best. Make the most of it and life will be many times as valuable to you as if you sought only the means to supply your stomach with food and your body with clothes.

FORMER KAISER GETS PASSPORT

Brussels Is Informed the Ex-Emperor Will Return to Berlin.

MONARCHY EXPECTED DEC. 4

Brussels.—The former German emperor, William II, now in exile at Doorn, Holland, is preparing to return to the fatherland. He already has in his hands passports for himself and his suite, and the Brussels Gazette goes so far as to say that it is expected the Hohenzollern monarchy will be restored on Dec. 4, William, or his son, the former Crown Prince Frederick William, ascending the throne.

Private advices from Doorn, received by the Agence Telegraphique Belge, say a courier, Von Hoechst, arrived at Doorn at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon with twelve German passports for the ex-kaiser and his immediate entourage. A telegram in cipher was received there in the morning, and early in the afternoon there was a long conference between William and those close to him. Later a high Dutch official, Dr. Kan of the ministry of the interior, called and was closeted with the former emperor for thirty-five minutes.

A wireless system has been installed at Doorn house, which has been the residence of the head of the Hohenzollerns during the late years of his interment in Holland, and messages are received from Nauen at noon daily.

Paris.—The reports that the ex-kaiser is ready to return to Germany reached Paris at midnight, and high officials were immediately advised. It is understood that a stiff note will be sent to The Hague warning the Dutch government that it will be responsible for the gravest circumstances if the former kaiser is permitted to leave Holland.

Berlin.—The allies have demanded the immediate delivery of former Crown Prince Frederick William for trial as to his war guilt. The demand is contained in a note protesting against his return to Germany, according to well informed diplomatic circles in Berlin.

Britain to Pay $92,000,000 in U. S. Liberty Bonds

Washington.—The British government has notified the treasury that its next payment on the war debt, due December 15, will be in Liberty bonds. The payment will include $23,000,000 on the principal and $69,000,000 interest. The formal notice from the British government merely stated that the payment would not be made in gold or available funds, leaving the alternative of Liberty bonds, which the refunding settlement permits.

Ban on Japanese Land Owners Upheld by U. S. Supreme Court

Washington.—The United States Supreme court in two decisions, held that the anti-alien land laws of the states of California and Washington are constitutional and valid. Both cases came before the Supreme court on appeals brought by Japanese after the state courts had upheld the laws, which prohibits aliens not eligible to citizenship under United States laws from acquiring or possessing real property.

Anti-Semites Drive Professor Einstein From Germany

Berlin.—Menacing letters from anti-Semites received by Prof. Albert Einstein since his return from Russia several days ago have convinced the scientist of the advisability of his leaving Germany for Holland. The letters contain clear intimations that attempts would be made on his life.

$45,000,000 Is Urged for United States Air Force

Vast Lake of Pitch.

In the thirteen odd million square miles of territory which comprises the British empire there are many remarkable phenomena, one of the most interesting being the Pitch lake of Trinidad, in the West Indies. It is a natural reservoir of valuable mineral pitch, 100 acres in extent, from which 200,000 tons of asphalt are exported annually. About half way across Kenya colony, in British East Africa, is Magadi lake, a vast natural deposit of soda. The lake is ten miles long, two or three miles in width, and seen from the mountains that surround it, it has the appearance of an immense ruffled white sheet.

A man's friends are often those who are not too particular.

Mrs. A. Van Arnem

Davenport, Iowa.—"I wish I could tell to all the world how much I owe to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was nearing middle life when my last child came and my health was miserable. I had continuous pain in my right side. I took nine bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and can truly say that I suffered the least that time and my health afterwards was better than it had ever been before. While passing through the critical time of life I depended solely upon 'Favorite Prescription' to keep me well and strong and it did not fail me. I had none of the distressing symptoms most women have at this period, such as heat flashes and dizzy spells. I came through in excellent health and am still just as strong and well as I was thirty years ago, thanks to this best of medicines, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—Mrs. Alice Van Arnem, 1705 W. American Farm Bureau

The legislative committee of the American Farm Bureau federation, O. E. Bradfute, president; Executive Committeemen E. H. Wood, Kentucky; Howard Leonard, Illinois; Frank App, New Jersey. Gray Silver, Washington representative of the farm bureau is secretary of this committee. It is Mr. Silver's department in Washington that is entrusted with the task of putting over the program adopted.

Members of the legislative committee of the American Farm Bureau federation recently lunched with President Coolidge and discussed in detail with the President the farm bureau's legislative program for the next session of congress. Representing the farm bureau were O. E. Bradfute, president; General E. H. Wood, Kentucky; Frank App, New Jersey; W. G. Jamison, Colorado, and Edward B. Reid, as assistant Washington representative.

The legislative program, as outlined to President Coolidge, restricted itself to eight general points, the farm bureau representatives assuring the President that it was not the purpose of the federation to develop a long involved program, or to interest itself in things not directly affecting farm interests.

On certain points the committee held open their opinion and indicated that a referendum would be taken of the entire farm bureau membership so that the farm bureau legislative program should accurately reflect the true wish of the membership.

Immigration Discussed.

The question of immigration was discussed at some length, the thought of the farmers being that there should be a selective immigration as at present, but that the passports should be issued at the ports of embarkation and that the quota should be based upon the number of foreign born in this country as reported in 1890 instead of 1910. This would lessen materially the number of immigrants that would come in, but should tend to open the doors to a better class.

The opposition of the farm bureau to governmental price fixing was plainly stated, the legislative committee telling the President they did not believe that congress could in this way assist the farmers. It was indicated that the price fixing position would be further established by referendum.

In discussing taxation, the present program of the farm bureau was gone over carefully and the President was reminded that the farmers would insist upon an excess profit tax if more money had to be raised, and that the federation would continue its fight against a general sales tax. The farm bureau committee expressed a desire to make a further study of the matter of the limitation of the tax free securities before starting a definite plan.

Soldier Bonus.

In regard to the soldier bonus, the farm bureau representatives indicated that in accord with the resolutions adopted at various annual meetings of the federation they were heartily in favor of proper assistance to the ex-service men, but that the federation's main interest in the bonus was in the matter of financing. It was indicated that the federation would staunchly oppose any attempt to finance a bonus by direct sales tax.

The federation officials showed much interest in crop insurance. They made it plain that they did not wish the federal government to go into the insurance business, but they asked President Coolidge that the various departments make available information upon which reliable crop actuarial tables could be formed.

Fight for "Truth-in-Fabric."

It was further indicated that the federation would continue its fight for Truth-in-Fabric legislation. "The Truth-in-Fabric," the committee told President Coolidge, "merely calls for common honesty and the federation is asking that it be passed in the interests of the consumer. The bill seeks to have woolen goods of all kinds so labeled that they will show the percentage of virgin wool, shoddy, mingo, muck, silk and other fabrics which they contain."

In regard to the proposed plan for the consolidation of railroads the committee reserved decision until after a referendum could be taken and further studies be made by the transportation department of the federation.

President Coolidge was reminded that it is the government's next move in the Muscle Shoals development and that farmers have greater interest in this movement than anybody else and that they are still for Henry Ford's offer—the manufacture of cheap fertilizer and the amortization of hydro-electric power.

It developed that highway construction, export of farm products, tariff, wages and other factors affecting the farmer had been under discussion during the meeting of the legislative committee which had been in session in Washington for a week preceding the luncheon with President Coolidge.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 18

OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST A MISSIONARY

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 9:35-38; Luke 9:1-5; John 3:16-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—"God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."—John 3:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Preaching in City and Country.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus a Missionary.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Missionary Activity of Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ's Missionary Zeal.

I. The Missionary Motive (Matt. 9:35-38).

As Jesus saw the multitude His compassion was aroused. Their pitiful condition moved Him to take steps to provide missionaries. The result of this was the sending forth of the Twelve. Jesus saw the multitude as: 1. Shepherdless Sheep (v. 36). The people were in need of a protector, provider and guide, just as sheep are of a shepherd. They were faint and scattered—distressed, cast down and hopeless. What a picture of the needy world today! The world is hungry but knows not how to have this hunger satisfied. They know not which way to turn in their confusion and perplexity. They are in need of that which alone the Good Shepherd can supply.

2. Grain Ready for Harvest (v. 37). He told the disciples that the grain was ripe, ready for the harvest, and that unless laborers were secured the harvest would be lost. This is still a picture of the world. The laborers are still few. It is the Lord's harvest that is ready to be gathered. No wonder He was moved with compassion! Those who have eyes to see and hearts to feel are still moved with compassion as they see the world ready to be gathered into Christ's fold but no one to perform the labor. The means for securing laborers for the harvest is prayer. He urged the disciples to pray that the Lord would send forth laborers.

II. Classes of Missionaries (Luke 9:1-3).

Three classes are here enumerated: 1. Jesus Himself (v. 1). He is the grand and supreme missionary. All receive their example and power from Him. He left all and gave all in this great enterprise.

2. The Twelve (v. 1). Christ called them and sent them forth. They were His representatives and were clothed with His power. Missionaries should be chosen and commissioned by the Lord himself. In the evangelization of the world there will always be need of the group of men and women devoted exclusively to that work.

3. Certain Women (vv. 2, 3). Christian women can most effectively do their part in preaching the gospel by ministering to the workers. All who have experienced the saving grace of God desire to have a part in sending the gospel to others that they too might be saved. The church is greatly indebted to the work of consecrated women.

III. The Missionary Message (John 3:16, 17).

The salvation which is offered to the lost world was accomplished through the sacrificial death of Christ. Out of a heart of love God gave His own son to die. The figure portraying the method of the Cross and salvation is that of the brazen serpent. The outstanding teaching as suggested by Dr. Charles R. Erdman is as follows:

"1. That men are, like the Israelites of old, serpent-bitten; but the deadly poison is the sting of sin.

"2. God has provided a remedy in the person of His Son; in His crucifixion we see sin vanquished, as the uplifted serpent pictured the death of the destroyer; yet as the uplifted serpent was not real but one of brass, so Christ was not really a partaker of sin but only made in the likeness of sinful flesh.

"3. As it was necessary for the dying Israelites to accept God's provision, and with submission and faith to look upon the brazen serpent, so it is necessary for us to look in repentance and faith to the crucified Savior and to commit ourselves to God as He is graciously revealed in Jesus Christ. If we refuse to accept Christ we perish, but faith results in eternal life.

"4. This provision is made by the love of God and is freely offered to everyone who believes. 'For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.'

His Presence.

When we have broken our god of tradition, and ceased from our god of rhetoric, then may God fire the heart with His presence.—Emerson.

God's Way.

God's way of forgiving is thorough and hearty—both to forgive and to forget; and if thine be not so, thou hast no portion of His.—Leighton.

Heart and Home.

Without hearts there is no home.—Byron.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

It is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Your bath goes only skin-deep.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.
